

FEATHERED GRACEFULNESS. This tangle of elongated necks and spindle-like legs belongs to the prize flock of gorgeous flamingoes that brightens London's famous zoological gardens. Florida would still be a flamingo habitat had fashion fancied less the gorgeous plumage of this rara avis. Keystone

Left—"THE STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER." One of the most interesting sights caught by the Memorial Day cameraman was diminutive Frank Callizaro, a five-year-old Manhattan Boy Scout, who bravely managed to serve as color bearer for the memorial services held in Chelsea Park. This sturdy example of Young America had more than his hands full, but performed his duty in true Scout fashion. Keystone

Right—A HUMAN BUG. Kinjo Ikeda, who holds the championship Japanese catch-as-catch-can wrestling title, and is now meeting the best American wrestlers on the Pacific Coast. Ikeda claims he has never been defeated, each one of the elongated chop sticks that protrudes from his waist representing a victory on the mat. Kadet & Herbert

Left—ENOUGH FOR A WHOLE CHORUS. A record breaking lobster, weighing twenty-two and a half pounds, captured off the coast of Nova Scotia and recently exhibited in Boston. How'd you like to meet such an old granddaddy of the shellfish family as this one some day when you're in bathing. Underwood

JOYCE WETHERED and the great silver challenge cup she captured when she won the women's amateur golf championship of England the other day. Britain's new twenty-year-old golf queen defeated Miss Cecil Leitch, three winner of the coveted honor, by the decisive score in the finals of 9 up and 7 to play. Underwood

Left—NORMAN ROCKWELL, the popular magazine cover artist, has a grand and glorious time of it wheeling a barrow load of his famous juvenile models about the lawn of his studio home at New Rochelle, N. Y. New Rochelle youngsters think Mister Rockwell is just about the nicest man they know, 'cepting of course Santa Claus and their own daddies. Gallows
